AOS Ware Launches Block & Sub Feature for JWOD/Ability One Items

Jersey City, NJ (2.3.10) – AOS Ware has released a new JWOD/Ability One item block & substitute feature on its OP Commander 3.0 eCommerce platform.

For Dealers who handle U.S. Federal government accounts, the OP Commander eCommerce system can be set up to handle automatic substitutions of JWOD/Ability One items. The new feature functions as a "hard sub", meaning that all SKU's which have a corresponding JWOD/Ability One substitute SKU will automatically be blocked from ordering on the site. Instead, the user will only see the SKU for the JWOD/Ability One items.

The substitution occurs throughout every section of the site where a user may search or purchase a product, including full site search, category browsing and the Quick Order screen. This feature is available for United Stationers and S.P. Richards dealers. A dealer may also choose to provide their own custom block & substitute SKU list to use on the website. Once the feature is activated, it can be applied to every company currently ordering through the Dealer's website, or a select group of customers specified by the Dealer.

"This feature is very beneficial for those dealers who handle Federal government accounts, and are required by law to provide JWOD/Ability One substitution products. The system will block & substitute the products automatically so it is seamless for the end user", explains Jennifer Schulman, V.P. of Sales & Marketing for AOS Ware. "Our next block & substitute feature will leverage the same functionality, but will be applied to the blocking & substitution of value brand items, so the dealer can maximize margins while saving their customers money", concludes Mrs. Schulman.
